

List of Contributors

Prof. Ronald Dore

Senior Research Fellow at the Centre for Economic Performance, London School of Economics and Political Science, at which he was sometime Professor of Sociology.

Prof. Ronald Dore, born in 1925, is a member of the British Academy, the Japan Academy and the American Academy of Arts. His publications include: British Factory: Japanese Factory, 1973; Flexible Rigidities, 1986; Taking Japan Seriously, 1987; and Stock Market Capitalism : Welfare Capitalism : Japan and Germany Versus the Anglo-Saxons, 2000

Prof. dr. ir. Rienk Goodijk

Senior-consultant at GITP International and Professor of Labour Relations and Corporate Governance at the University of Groningen, the Netherlands.

Prof. Rienk Goodijk, born in 1956, is a consultant and researcher in the field of corporate governance and workers participation. His publications include: On the way to a professional works council?, 1993; Works Council and strategic decision-making, 1995; Corporate Governance and workers participation, 1998; European works councils and strategic policy making, 2000.

Prof. dr. Jan Peter van den Toren

University of Amsterdam (Henri Polak chair)

Also director Research & Development of the National Federation of Christian Trade Unions in the Netherlands (CNV).

Prof. Jan Peter VAN DEN TOREN, born in 1964, is an economist and researcher in the field of industrial relations. He got his PhD in 1996 on collective bargaining in the Netherlands. He recently wrote on collective bargaining, the Dutch institutional model, employers organisations, European industrial relations and employability. His actual research is on (1) employability, (2) corporate governance and works councils and (3) strategic decision making in international firms.

Prof. dr. Jürgen Hoffmann

Professor for Political Sociology - Hochschule (University) für Wirtschaft und Politik Hamburg (Hamburg School of Economics and Politics); scientific adviser/European Trade Union Institute (ETUI) Brussels.

Prof. Jürgen Hoffmann, born in 1944, is studying as well as teaching political sociology, theories of social and economic crises, relationship between economy and ecology, industrial relations in Germany and Western Europe, labour markets. He got his Ph.D. in 1978 at the Free University of Berlin. His recent books include: Jenseits der Beschlußlage - Gewerkschaft als Zukunftswerkstatt, Köln 1990, 1992 (Modernization of society and economic restructuring processes as a challenge for traditionalist trade union policies - a manifesto); (editor/author, together with Hildegard Matthies, Ulrich Mückenberger), Der Betrieb als Ort ökologischer Politik, Münster 1992 (environmental policies on the level of the firm); (together with Jens Libbe, Kerstin Neitzel, Wolfgang Voegeli), Stadt am Atomstrom, Möglichkeiten und Grenzen des Ausstiegs Hamburgs aus der Atomwirtschaft, Marburg 1993 (How to get out of nuclear energy production - the case of Hamburg); Politisches Handeln und gesellschaftliche Struktur - Grundzüge deutscher Gesellschaftsgeschichte, Münster 1996 (Political action and the social structure - an analytical introduction in German social history).

Prof. Takeshi Inagami

Professor for Graduate School of Humanities and Sociology, Faculty of Letter, University. of Tokyo

Prof. Takeshi Inagami, borne in 1944, is a sociologist in the field of industrial sociology. His current study themes include the Future of Japanese-style Employment Practices, International Comparison of Human Resources Development and Corporate Governance. His recent books and articles in English include: Labour Market Policies in Asian Countries, Geneva: ILO, 1998; The Death of Labour Movement and the Japanization of Industrial Relations, Industrielle Beziehungen, Jr.3 Heft2, 1996.

Fujikazu Suzuki

Chief Researcher in JTUC-Research Institute for Advancement of Living Standards(RIALS).

Fujikazu Suzuki, borne in 1946, is a researcher in the field of industrial sociology. His recent article in English is: 'White Collar Careers and Trade Unions' in Who Runs Japanese Business edited by Toshiaki Tachibanaki & RIALS, 1998.